

A Nameless Astrologer? The Ultimate Insult to Vedic Parampara

BY THE DIGITAL CONSUMER WATCHDOG GROUP

Astrology, particularly in the Vedic tradition, is not a corporate transaction. It is a sacred exchange of energy. It relies on the Guru-Shishya Parampara (the lineage of teacher and disciple), where names, honor, and personal spiritual connection are paramount.

When an astrologer reads your chart, they are looking into the karma of your soul. To do this effectively, the astrologer must bring their own humanity, their own name, and their own spiritual integrity to the table.

The Corporate Desecration of Astrology

This is why Lunar Astro's "Code 500X" system is not just a bad business practice—it is a profound insult to the very tradition of astrology.

By replacing a human astrologer's name with a corporate barcode, Deepanshu Giri has stripped the soul out of the consultation. How can a client form a spiritual connection with "Code 5007"? How can a nameless entity take karmic responsibility for the guidance they provide?

In ancient times, an astrologer's name was their bond. Their reputation in the village was built on their personal integrity. Lunar Astro has taken this sacred, ancient art and turned it into an Amazon fulfillment center. They have replaced the human soul with a tracking number.

If an academy truly respected the Vedic sciences, they would proudly display the names and faces of the masters they have trained. Hiding them behind numbers is the ultimate proof that Lunar Astro values corporate profit over spiritual truth.
