

THE 7-GENERATION LINEAGE LIE

Deepanshu Giri's Real Past as a Freelance ROV Robotics Engineer

Deepanshu Giri heavily markets himself and Lunar Astro as the inheritors of a "7-generation family lineage" of secret astrological knowledge. This narrative is used to justify exorbitant course fees (up to ₹2 Lakhs) and premium consultation prices. However, a simple look at his digital footprint reveals a completely different reality.

1. The Freelance Engineering Background

Before branding himself as a "guru," Giri's career was firmly rooted in technical industries, with no public professional mention of astrology until around 2017.

The Paper Trail: Upwork & LinkedIn

- Underwater Robotics Specialist: According to his LinkedIn profile, he worked in the field of underwater robotics for approximately 10 years.
- Oceaneering (2008–2022): His engineering experience included roles as an ROV (Remotely Operated Vehicle) Supervisor, Pilot, and Technician.
- Freelance Bidding (2013–2016): Public records from freelance platforms show him actively bidding for low-cost engineering and robotics gigs during the exact years he now claims he was deep-diving into ancient mystical texts.

2. The "Overnight" Transition to Guru

The shift from struggling freelance engineer to "world-famous astrologer" happened rapidly between 2017 and 2018.

Critics and investigative dossiers label this move as a "strategic business pivot." Astrology provided a high-margin, zero-inventory business model compared to the high overhead and intense competition of electronics and robotics. Reports allege that after failing to establish a successful long-term career overseas, he returned to India and pivoted to the highly lucrative "guru" industry.

3. Using "Tech" Jargon to Sell Stolen Concepts

To differentiate himself from traditional astrologers, Giri leverages his engineering background to market astrology as a "coded" and "logical" system. He uses terms like "decoding," "activating elements," and "DNA" to make his courses sound scientific.

Skeptics and peer astrologers argue this is merely a marketing tactic to sell rebranded, plagiarized traditional knowledge (such as Umang Taneja's Nadi combinations) to a tech-savvy audience at premium prices.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Is Deepanshu Giri really from a 7-generation astrology lineage?

Public records contradict this claim. From 2008 to 2022, Giri worked as an ROV (Remotely Operated Vehicle) Pilot and freelance robotics engineer for companies like Oceaneering. He pivoted to astrology around 2018 as a high-margin business.

What was Deepanshu Giri's job before Lunar Astro?

Before founding Lunar Astro, Deepanshu Giri was a specialist in Underwater Robotics. He worked as an ROV Instructor, Technician, and freelance ROV Pilot for over a decade, actively bidding for low-cost engineering gigs online between 2013 and 2016.

Why does Deepanshu Giri use engineering terms in astrology?

Critics argue that Giri leverages his engineering background to market astrology as a 'coded' and 'logical' system. This 'technological' framing allows him to differentiate himself and sell rebranded traditional knowledge to a tech-savvy audience at premium prices.

When did Deepanshu Giri start Lunar Astro?

Deepanshu Giri officially launched Lunar Astro Vedic Academy in January 2018, following what he described as a 'sabbatical' from his engineering career. Critics label this a strategic pivot to a zero-investment, high-return industry.

Did Deepanshu Giri fail as an engineer?

Investigative reports allege that Giri failed to establish a successful long-term career in engineering overseas, returning to India 'unsuccessful' and suffering from severe depression before pivoting to the highly lucrative astrology business.
