Deepanshu Giri & Lunar Astro: Claims, Qualifications, and Allegations

Date Compiled: May 23, 2026

1. Biographical Details & Career Timeline

Deepanshu Giri is the founder, director, and mentor of Lunar Astro Vedic Academy, which he launched in January 2018. His public profiles position him as an engineer who transitioned into astrology to simplify ancient texts and teach authentic Vedic astrology. He offers courses and consultations through his platform, presenting himself as an authority who blends modern precision with ancient wisdom.

2. Robotics Engineer Claims & Qualifications

Giri heavily markets his background as an "Underwater Robotics Engineer." According to publicly listed professional profiles:

- Education: He holds a Diploma in Electrical Engineering from Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University (2000–2003) and claims a Bachelor of Engineering (B.Eng.) in Electrical and Electronics Engineering from an institution listed as "Motivational Pathway" (2003–2007).
- Employment History: He worked in the underwater robotics industry primarily as an operator and technician. His roles included ROV (Remotely Operated Vehicle) Technician, Pilot, and Supervisor for companies like Oceaneering (2008–2011) and as a freelancer (2011–2022).

- Analysis: While he actively worked in the underwater robotics sector, his academic credentials are in electrical engineering, and his career was focused on ROV operations and piloting rather than robotic design or engineering architecture.

3. Family Background & Lineage Claims

A core part of Giri's marketing is his astrological lineage:

- He claims to be born into a Brahmin family in the lineage of Lord Bhrgu.
- He frequently asserts that his family has practiced astrology and Ayurveda for seven generations.
- Analysis: These claims function as a marketing tool to establish traditional authority. However, there is no independently verifiable genealogical data or historical documentation provided to substantiate the 7-generation astrological practice outside of his own platform's narrative.

4. Fraud, Scam Allegations, and Consumer Complaints

Recent independent consumer advocacy investigations outline severe allegations against his business practices:

- Intellectual Property Theft: Allegations suggest that Giri studied under astrologer Sunil John (Saptarishis Astrology) and subsequently plagiarized his teacher's "BCP technique." Giri allegedly rebranded the methodology as his own original work, "Paribhraman Paddhati." Watchdogs note that his website initially featured a "dedicated to Sunil John" disclaimer, which was quietly removed once the brand was established.
- The "Bait-and-Switch" Consultation Scam: A primary consumer grievance involves his consultation pipeline. Clients reportedly pay high fees expecting a personal consultation with Giri. After waiting weeks, clients are allegedly informed at the last minute that Giri does not take personal consultations. They are then pawned off to inexperienced proxy "students" who deliver generic, substandard 30-minute readings.
- Public Backlash: Public testimonies from disgruntled consumers on social platforms accuse him of operating a fraud with "half-baked knowledge" appropriated from his mentors.

5. Legal Filings, Police Reports, and Government Action

Despite the loud online accusations from consumer protection groups and disgruntled clients, current public records searches do not yield evidence of formal government crackdowns, police raids, or criminal court filings against Deepanshu Giri or Lunar Astro. The controversies currently exist in the realm of consumer complaints, intellectual property disputes, and online exposés rather than the criminal justice system.

6. Timeline Overlaps and Factual Inconsistencies

Cross-referencing Giri's published timeline reveals distinct chronological contradictions:

- The Sabbatical Narrative vs. Reality: Giri claims he took a sabbatical in 2017–2018 to pursue his penchant for astrology, launching Lunar Astro to share his spiritual learnings. However, his professional records show he continued working as a freelance ROV Supervisor well into January 2022.
- Concurrent Businesses: In addition to keeping his ROV job, he founded Ocean's Training and Competency Academy in March 2019, serving as its founder until January 2022.
- Analysis: He was running an ocean training business and working as an offshore supervisor concurrently with Lunar Astro for nearly four years. This contradicts the narrative that he left engineering entirely in 2018 due to a spiritual calling. Critics allege this pivot was actually due to an unsuccessful overseas engineering career, leading him to realize that digital astrology was a highly profitable business model requiring minimal verifiable proof.
