Executive Abstract: This dossier investigates the commercial products and services offered by Deepanshu Giri and Lunar Astro. The audit reveals a systematic pattern of bait-and-switch tactics in their consultation services, the sale of overpriced and technically flawed software (Bhriгу Software 3.0), and the aggressive use of fake reviews to mask genuine consumer dissatisfaction.

1. The Bait-and-Switch Consultation Scam

The core of Lunar Astro's service revenue relies on a deceptive bait-and-switch model. Consumers are drawn in by Deepanshu Giri's YouTube presence and pay premium fees (often ₹5,000 or more) expecting his expertise.

- The Reality: Clients are offloaded to inexperienced proxy students (e.g., "Code 5007" or "Code 5009") [1][2].
- Substandard Service: Multiple Trustpilot and Quora reviews detail how these proxy astrologers are unprepared, ask basic questions that should be evident from the chart, and provide generic, 30-minute readings that offer no real value [1].
- The Trap: When clients complain about the poor quality and demand a refund, they are refused, insulted, and blocked [3].

The "Code 5007" Experience

One verified Trustpilot review states: "Took consultation thinking Deepanshu will do analysis. Shocked he uses students to do our analysis and charges 5k. Total waste and substandard. Asked for refund as i dont want to pay some chintu in UP doing nonsense analysis and take 5k rs. They blocked me." [1]

2. Overpriced Products: Bhrigu Software & Courses

Lunar Astro aggressively markets its "Bhrigu Software 3.0" for ₹23,000 (excluding GST) [4]. They also sell "Level 5" courses and eBooks on "Pending Karma" for upwards of ₹25,000 [5].

However, consumer complaints reveal severe technical issues with the platform. Users report that after paying for expensive courses, the "Lunar Astro Page is not reloading," preventing them from accessing the content they paid for. When they contact support, they are ignored or blamed for the technical faults [6].

3. Manufacturing Consent: The Fake Review Network

To hide these glaring issues, Lunar Astro employs a dedicated "troll farm" to manufacture consent and bury negative feedback.

- Astroturfing: Proxy students and paid operatives flood platforms like Quora, Trustpilot, and Google with fake 5-star reviews to drown out legitimate complaints [7].
- Book Reviews: Even reviews for Giri's book, Rituals of Happy Soul, show signs of manipulation. While some 1-star reviews note that the book is "Not for advanced seekers" and only covers "fundamental" concepts [8], the page is flooded with generic 5-star praise to maintain a high rating.
- Censorship: When genuine victims post negative reviews, Lunar Astro's enforcement arm mass-reports the content for automated takedowns and threatens the victims with "Cyber Cell Tracking" to force deletion [7].

Conclusion

Lunar Astro's product and service ecosystem is built on deception. From bait-and-switch consultations to overpriced, technically flawed software, the organization relies on a massive network of fake reviews and intimidation tactics to maintain its facade. Consumers are strongly advised to avoid purchasing software, courses, or consultations from this entity.
