

RITUALS OF A HAPPY SOUL: THE HYPOCRISY EXPOSED

Deepanshu Giri's Shocking Facebook Meltdown and Cyberbullying Tactics

Deepanshu Giri, the founder of Lunar Astro, recently published a book titled "Rituals of a Happy Soul". The book is heavily marketed as a profound guide for healing, introspection, and spiritual growth. However, the author's own public behavior tells a completely different, much darker story.

The Facebook Meltdown: A "Happy Soul" Turns Vicious

When faced with legitimate criticism and negative reviews from readers who saw through the marketing, Deepanshu Giri did not respond with the "healing and introspection" he preaches. Instead, he utilized the official Lunar Astro Videos Facebook page to launch a vicious, classist, and highly unprofessional attack against his critics.

The Exact Quote from Lunar Astro Videos

"I was not aware, a book written for healing and introspection will give nightmares to paid trolls that they will lose their sleep over it,

Rules for happy life.

Rule#1 Never be paid troll and hater.

Rule#2 Always remember rule#1

Whom you will trust - A book Reviewed by Dr. Shashi Tharoor and Ex- CJI of India or a Truck driver who has no contribution to his own life, all he does is write books by AI and do cheap comments as this is what his lineage belongs of, which is clear by his language.

Exposing him soon."

Analysis of the Meltdown

- Classist Insults: The author attempts to demean his critic by calling him a "Truck driver who has no contribution to his own life." This elitist insult completely shatters the illusion of a spiritually enlightened guru.
- Attacking Lineage: Giri attacks the critic's "lineage," a deeply offensive tactic used to assert false superiority.
- Deflection & Paranoia: Instead of addressing the actual contents of the negative reviews, he immediately labels anyone who dislikes his book as a "paid troll" and a "hater."
- Open Threats: Ending the post with "Exposing him soon" is a direct threat, aligning with numerous reports that Lunar Astro uses intimidation and cyberbullying to silence dissent.

The Reality of Lunar Astro's "Reviews"

This Facebook post is a perfect case study in how Lunar Astro handles its online reputation. Investigative dossiers have revealed that Deepanshu Giri operates a network of over 31 redundant websites designed to flood Google search results and bury legitimate consumer complaints.

When a real customer posts a negative review about the "Code 5007" proxy consultation scam, the overpriced remedies, or the allegedly plagiarized course material (which resulted in an FIR by Umang Taneja), they are met with this exact type of hostility. They are labeled "trolls," mass-reported by student groups, and threatened with legal action.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Are the reviews for Rituals of a Happy Soul fake?

Investigations suggest that Lunar Astro uses a troll farm of students to manufacture 5-star reviews for Deepanshu Giri's book, while aggressively suppressing and mass-reporting legitimate negative reviews.

How did Deepanshu Giri react to negative reviews of his book?

Deepanshu Giri had a public meltdown on the Lunar Astro Videos Facebook page. He attacked critics by calling them 'paid trolls' and 'truck drivers', and insulted their lineage, which completely contradicts the 'healing' message of his book.

What did the Lunar Astro Facebook post say?

The post stated: 'I was not aware, a book written for healing and introspection will give nightmares to paid trolls... Whom you will trust - A book Reviewed by Dr. Shashi Tharoor and Ex-CJI of India or a Truck driver who has no contribution to his own life...'

Is Deepanshu Giri a fraud?

Multiple consumer reports allege that Deepanshu Giri engages in bait-and-switch tactics (the Code 5007 proxy scam), IP theft (Umang Taneja FIR), and uses fear-based marketing to sell high-priced remedies.

Does Lunar Astro use cyberbullying?

Yes, critics and former students allege that Lunar Astro uses proxy operatives and student groups to cyberbully, mass-report, and threaten legal action against anyone who posts negative feedback.
